Description

A new £140m, 798 bed, acute hospital PFI has been constructed near to the existing Oldchurch Hospital. Tangram were responsible for the appraisal of development options, master planning and production of the outline design and detailed department layouts.

Innovations & Added Value

The design reflects models of graduated care and patient focus rather than departmental focus. Clustered nursing units are wrapped around clinical areas providing association with departmental specialties. A three storey solution deals with a constrained site.
