

Thrombosis Institute, Kings Road

Client

The Thrombosis Institute

Description

The institute shares a building on Kings Road, Chelsea with another research organisation and the building comprises laboratories, offices and academic spaces. They were approached by a developer with an offer for their site including the provision of a new building.

Innovations & Added Value

Tangram were appointed to develop an outline design for the building to test the suitability of the site and provide a basis for costing the proposal. The institute were interested in the digital block models quickly developed in our office.
